Will be Opposed by a Fulton Educator in Oregon Friday

Two candidates appeared on the ballot for the presidency of the Rock River Valley division of the Illinois State Teachers' association at the annual institute to be held tomorrow at the coliseum in Oregon. B. J. Fraser, principal of the Dixon high school, is one of the candidates and E. E. Liljequist, of Fulton, is the other. The Australian ballot system will be used in the selection of officers for the first time in the history of the Rock River division because of the nomination of these two aspirants. Announcement of the adoption of the plan of election was made by John Wells at this morning's session of the Lee county institute. The list of officers meeting at the Rock River Valley division is as follows:

President—B. J. Fraser, Dixon; Vice President—Benjamin Kietzman, Polo, and C. R. Williams, Waterman.

Secretary—Jerome Robbins, Sterling, and J. M. Thompson, Steward.

Treasurer—H. C. Hewitt, Fortson, and T. Watne, Shabbona. Executive committee chairman L. T. Hanson, Franklin Grove and H. R. Lusch, Roselle.

Members of executive committee—(two to be elected)—William D. Wees, Amboy, Mary L. Gantz, Oregon, Harold Patterson, Mt. Morris, J. A. Torrens, Ashton.

Legislative committee—Stanley R. Pinnerock, Leaf River and H. B. Hilbish, Erie.

Charles A. Fresk of Springfield, publicity director of the Illinois Tuberculosis association, appeared on this morning's program of the Lee County Institute at the Dixon theater in a ten minute illustrated lecture, which was an added feature to the program.

His brief talk presented with slides, depicted the necessity for protection of the children in the schools against tuberculosis. The speaker urged every protection against the disease among children in the schools and suggested that teachers submit themselves to tuberculin tests before being permitted to engage in their chosen profession.

The movement is one which is state wide to require all teachers to undergo a tuberculin test before accepting positions in the schools.

FILIPINOS CAN REPAIR STORM LOSS QUICKLY

Buildings Wrecked by Typhoon Can be Rebuilt Rapidly

Manila, P. I., Oct. 18 (AP)—Have which a typhoon spread over Manila and central Luzon island Tuesday was only a fraction of the tragedy that probably would have resulted had the same storm struck a thickly populated area in the United States or Europe.

The number of dead, placed at 43 by the Manila Tribune, would have been far greater.

Estimates that 50,000 were left homeless by the tropical hurricane lack the significance they would have in a temperate area where individuals destruction of hundreds of permanent buildings and an immense property loss.

But in the tropical Philippines it means for many of those directly affected only a few days inconvenience.

The mass of the Filipino population, even in Manila, is housed in simple bamboo palm-thatched huts of one to three rooms. They cost about a hundred dollars to construct. Five workers can build such a house in three days.

The body then was removed to the Pantheon to remain until the final rites Saturday. Burial will be in the family cemetery at Nubecourt.

DIXON HOSPITAL AGAIN IS GIVEN A. C. C. APPROVAL

Institution Complies Fully With College Minimum Standard

Miss Ada M. Decker, R. N., superintendent of the Dixon public hospital has been informed that the hospital has been awarded full approval by the American College of Surgeons for the year 1934.

Approval is given from year to year to the hospitals that fully comply with the requirements as laid down in the minimum standard of the American College of Surgeons.

Of 3,538 hospitals of 25 beds and over in the United States and Canada, which were included this year in the survey of the American College of Surgeons, 2,480 won a place on the approved list.

Dr. Franklin H. Martin, founder and director general of the organization, in presenting the seventeenth annual report of the Hospital Standardization movement of the College, stated: "Hospital care in the United States and Canada, despite trying economic conditions of the last five years, has shown a most gratifying improvement in service. Hospitals approved by the A. C. S. have been successful in their determined efforts to provide efficient care for the sick and injured."

"Two significant facts of much importance to the public are revealed in this year's survey. The death rate in hospitals is even below that of last year, and the period of hospitalization has been shortened."

Episcopal Budget Balanced: Birth Control Debated

Atlantic City, N. J., Oct. 18 (AP)—With its budget problem solved, the 51st triennial general convention of the Protestant Episcopal church tackled today an agenda still crammed with major issues.

At the fore was a resolution recommending freer dissemination of birth control information. Vigorously debated in the House of Bishops yesterday, the resolution was kept on the calendar by a close vote.

The committee on social service reported favorably on the measure which had been introduced by the Rt. Rev. S. Arthur Huston, of Olympia, Wash.

The budget, principal item of business on the convention calendar, went smoothly through the House of Bishops and the House of Deputies yesterday, though convention leaders had feared prolonged debate. The committee endorsed the budget of $2,700,000 proposed by the National Council.

Springfield, Ill., Oct. 18 (AP)—One hundred forty-five Illinois cities and villages today were granted permission by the Supreme Court to intervene as friends of the court in the suit brought by the People's Gas Light & Coke Company of Chicago in its efforts to be declared exempt from the sales tax on its products.

The Cook county Circuit Court has held gas, electricity and water tangible personal property and subject to the two per cent sales tax. The company has appealed and the municipalities, all of which operate utilities, have joined in the appeal.

The municipalities also have on file a suit in the Sangamon county Circuit Court in which they are seeking an injunction restraining the state department of finance from collecting the sales tax on the products of their city water and electric plants.

SUCCESSOR TO DEAD FREPORT MAN UNCERTAIN

Democrats May Decide After Wright's Funeral There Today

Funeral services for Orestes H. Wright, Freport, Democratic candidate for congressman from the Thirteenth district who died in a Rockford hospital Tuesday following an automobile accident, were held at 2 P. M. today at the home of his mother, Mrs. William O. Wright, 845 Stephenson street, Freport.

Meanwhile the search for a candidate to fill the vacancy is continuing. The six county chairmen will meet following the funeral of Mr. Wright, probably in the office of Sherwood Dixon, state central committeeman. There is considerable talk of honoring Mrs. Wright, widow of the late candidate, by placing her in nomination. Whether she would accept or not is not known. The same thing is true with Harry Coleman of Freport, who was Mr. Wright's opponent at the primary. Another potential candidate is Robert L. Morris of Lanark. In no case, however, has the potential candidate given consent to the use of his name. Sherwood Dixon is another suggested candidate, but he like Jacob Cantlin of Rock Falls has refused to run.

STREAM-LINED STEAM ENGINE WILL BE TRIED

Baltimore & Ohio's Secret Locomotive About Complete

Baltimore, Oct. 18 (AP)—The B. & O. says the Baltimore & Ohio Railroad has about completed work on a "revolting" stream-lined locomotive expected to rival the Diesel-powered Burlington "Zephyr."

"High officials have maintained the greatest secrecy, planning to withhold all announcements until tests have proven definitely successful," the paper says.

"However, it is understood that preliminary tests have shown the new engine capable of great speeds. Full information of the new engine is expected in about a week."

"A war between steam and Diesel engines on the new stream-line trains was forecast by the assertion of officials that the engine was built with the hopes of proving steam-powered stream-line engines superior to the Diesel type such as are now in use by the Union Pacific and the Burlington."

Dummy Account in Insult Stock Trade Charged by Witness

Chicago, Oct. 18 (AP)—Testimony that "dummy accounts" were used for trading in insult stock, some of it on orders given by Samuel Insull himself, came in the Insull mail fraud trial today from J. D. Scheinman, a broker.

About December 1, 1929, Scheinman told the jury, which is trying Insull and 16 associates, Insull told him to trade in the first stock issued by the company now under fire—the Corporation Securities Company of Chicago.

"He told me to operate in the allotment units," said Scheinman, referring to the form in which the stock was distributed, "and said he'd like to put them up to $75 a share. He said a lot of people had paid that for them."

"Within reason, I could use my own judgment on how much to buy and what price was necessary to get the stock up."

Illinois Official Has Turned Inventor

Chicago, Oct. 18 (AP)—This inventor has an idea for preventing bootleggers from refilling good bottles with bad liquor.

It is a bottle with a 25-cent piece embedded in the glass. The purchaser would be charged for it and to get his quarter back he'd have to smash the bottle when it was empty.

The inventor is J. M. Braude, associate director of the Illinois state department of finance. He told about it today to the National Conference of Wholesalers here.

NATURE OPENED BAG OF TRICKS IN CALIF. STORM

Two Missing, Scores are Homeless in Unusual Disturbance

Los Angeles, Oct. 18 (AP)—Two boys missing, 5500 people homeless, highways blocked by landslides and property damage estimated at more than $100,000 was the result today of a southern California weather potpourri.

Starting with a mild earthquake, nature brought out about every trick in its bag yesterday, including a mild tornado, thunder, lightning, hail, snow, torrential rains—and a waterspout.

Donald Butterworth, 9, Los Angeles, was reported missing by his mother. Police said they had been informed a boy had fallen into a storm drain near the Butterworth home.

A check at the state automobile license bureau here revealed the Indiana plates found in the car were issued on September 5 to T. H. Robinson of South Bend. They were issued for a large coupe. The motor number found on the car at Springfield is not registered in Indiana, however.

Lloyd Spindle, 11, also of Los Angeles, failed to return home from school and it was feared he had drowned in flooded street.

The homeless were largely in the North State street area of Long Beach where nearly five inches of rain fell in 24 hours.

Homes, Roads Damaged
Police estimated the damage to flooded homes would approximate $100,000. In addition to this, severe damage was done to state highways.

The transcontinental highway through Cajon Pass east of San Bernardino was completely blocked early today by landslides which followed a cloudburst in the mountains. The road was covered with four feet of rocks and mud.

Approximately 200 people were marooned in the Cajon Pass, including the passengers of five transcontinental buses.

The Santa Fe railroad tracks through the pass also were affected by landslides. Traffic was delayed more than two hours.

During the intermittent downpours, a miniature tornado whirled through Inglewood, suburb of Los Angeles; high tides pounded at Newport Beach sending a house into the ocean, and a waterspout appeared off the breakwater light at San Pedro. Hail, thunder, lightning and snow were reported in various sections.

Fine Improvement at Steward H. S. Will be Voted On

Plans for extensive improvements of the high school at Steward are under way and bids are to be opened Saturday, Oct. 27 on the proposal of erecting a new gymnasium addition to the present fine school structure. A $50,000 grant has been approved under the federal Public Works Administration program for this improvement.

Prof. J. M. Thompson, in Dixon today attending the annual institute of the Lee County Teachers' association, stated that when completed the addition will afford a combined gymnasium and auditorium equipped with the latest modern facilities suitable for any community gathering. A permanent stage is to be erected in one end of the section of the school now devoted to the gymnasium. The building will be extended to provide regulation basketball courts and accommodations for other indoor games, with a balcony affording seating capacity for about 700 persons. The addition is to be wired for sound pictures and will be modern in every respect.

Same Motor Number

Chief Abele said the motor number on the automobile was the same as that broadcast by the department of justice as the one on the car in which Robinson fled.

Police were sent to a building and loan office in which Mrs. Dearwester said she deposited the $5 and six 81 bills the man gave her or the room. They sought to determine if the money was part of that paid for the release of Mrs. Stoll but it was believed doubtful if the building and loan company could locate the particular bills.

In the suitcase, in addition to the overcoat, was found a copy of a Chicago newspaper of October 12 with the headline, "Await Word From Kidnaper." The newspaper had never been opened, Abele said.

WAS HE IN CANTON, ILL.?

Canton, Ill., Oct. 18 (AP)—While newspaper photographs were studied and resemblances found, officials were uncertain today as to whether the gun-flashing stranger who shot a man and stole two automobiles here yesterday was Thomas H. Robinson, wanted in the Stoll kidnapping.

Chief of Police B. E. Cook, who questioned persons who saw the gunman, said the descriptions varied greatly but tallied in part.

Whoever it was, the man apparently escaped toward Peoria and officials believed he was not in Fulton county.

The last automobile stolen was located on a road near Peoria.

Condition Critical

Arthur Schumaker, 35, Canton, who was shot in the abdomen and leg when he refused to leave his automobile, is in a critical condition but is expected to recover.

Andy Rumler, whose car was taken by the stranger after Schumaker was shot, looked over new photographs this morning and thought it might have been Robinson.

Last night it was decided that the man could not have been the kidnaper. (Continued on Page 2)

Louisville Kidnaper Continues To Elude Officers In Numerous Parts Of Midwest: His Wife Held

Two-Day-Old Trail is Picked up Suddenly in Ohio City

Louisville, Ky., Oct. 18 (AP)—The claim that Mrs. Frances Robinson worked with Department of Justice agents in an effort to free Mrs. Alice Speed Stoll was made today by counsel for the wife of the actual kidnaper, Clem W. Huggins, represented here, said she had not seen Mrs. Stoll and that he believed Mrs. Stoll would help her. Huggins, who said he went to school in Nashville "many years ago" with the elder Robinson, announced he would defend her. He added that "for old times' sake" he would defend the elder Robinson, if requested, but said he would not defend the fugitive if he is caught.

Lawyer Says Wife of Kidnaper Aided Detectives

Declaring Mrs. Robinson was "absolutely in the clear," Huggins after spending about 25 minutes talking to her in the women's dormitory at the Jefferson county jail, briefly sketched her version on the part she played.

"She was working all the time under the direction of the government agents," Huggins said. He added that one day last week there was a conference in Nashville of the Attorney General of the state, Federal agents and a member of the Stoll family.

"As a result," he said, "Mrs. Robinson received the ransom money there and took it to Indianapolis, fully aware of being trailed by government agents."

Huggins said he did not know the details of why she had not fled. He said she had been told by her husband's hideout in an Indianapolis apartment where M. Stoll was kept, six days.

"To Keep Knowledge
"She had no prior knowledge of the kidnapping," Huggins continued, "nothing to do with the renting of the apartment in Indianapolis. She is a friend of her husband. She was not a co-conspirator with Mrs. Stoll while Mrs. Stoll was a prisoner."

Huggins declared Mrs. Robinson had no part at all in the case until her husband telephoned her from Indianapolis that he was the kidnaper.

"She came back at Mrs. Stoll's behest," he added.

Referring to the $500 of the $50,000 which Federal agents said Mrs. Robinson had received, Huggins said Robinson had taken all the "good money" she had except a few dollars and had given her $500 of the ransom money.

"She turned it over to Mrs. Stoll," the lawyer added. "I believe Mrs. Stoll will do all she can to help Mrs. Robinson."

Paroled Slayer is Held as Killer of Chicago Politician

Chicago, Oct. 18 (AP)—Upon a man whose mind was believed warped by 13 years behind prison bars, police today blamed the slaying of Michael G. Walsh, 55, city water pipe extension foreman and politician. Walsh was shot and killed on the steps of his home yesterday.

John Green, 38, released five weeks ago from Stateville prison at Joliet where he served 13 years and nine months for another killing, was charged with the shooting. Police said he had confessed.

Green is a brother of Matthew Green, hunted as the slayer of Michael Regan, a gambler, last New Year's Day. Police Captain John Pendergast said adding that he believed Green blamed Walsh for the extended police search for his brother.

SHOT IN CORNFIELD

Benton, Ill., Oct. 18 (AP)—Roy Uhl, a farmer of near Benton, put more than 150 shotgun pellets in the back of John Armstrong, 19, when he and Silas Armstrong, 22, cousins, were caught in Uhl's cornfield last night.

Uhl told authorities two acres of his corn had been stolen this year. The two cousins were held pending investigation.

LOST LIFE WITH PET

Benton, Ill., Oct. 18 (AP)—Mary, four-year-old daughter of Robert Ewing, was killed last night when she was struck by an automobile driven by H. L. McClellan of Marion, when she attempted to cross the highway to show a neighbor her pet kitten, which also was killed.

Head of Chicago Bakery is Held for Questioning in Murder Last March of Rich Advertising Man

Chicago, Oct. 18 (AP)—Irving Weitzmann, head of a south-side bakery, was held by police last night after being questioned in connection with the investigation of the slaying last March of Eli Daiches, wealthy advertising man.

Weitzmann was detained secretly yesterday morning, it was disclosed, and held until three other men had been questioned. He is the brother of Louis Weitzmann, New York, chairman of the board of the Thomas Bowers Advertising Agency, the firm of which the slain man was formerly sole owner. Daiches' stock in the concern had been transferred to Louis Weitzmann as security for a loan, police said.

Alfred H. Assistant State Attorney Richard Ryan refused to divulge the results of the questioning, efforts of Weitzmann's attorney to effect his release were unavailable.

Daiches was killed by a rifle from shotguns in the hands of two men who drew up beside his car.

Special Grand Jury to Consider Case on Saturday

Louisville, Ky., Oct. 18 (AP)—A special grand jury to inquire into the kidnapping of Mrs. Alice Speed Stoll today was ordered impaneled Saturday by Federal District Judge Charles I. Dawson.

The order was issued on motion of U. S. District Attorney Thomas J. Sparks, who announced yesterday he would demand the death penalty for Thomas H. Robinson, Jr., 27, discharged lunatic, sought by the man who abducted the young society matron and held her six days for $50,000 ransom.

Sparks recounted how the woman was slugged and taken from her home the afternoon of October 10 and held six days in Indianapolis apartment.

"The action of said parties constitutes a flagrant and defiant violation of the laws of the U. S.," Sparks said, and urged an immediate grand jury investigation.

Typewriter Found
Earl J. Connolly of the Cincinnati bureau, Department of Justice, said the typewriter found in the Indianapolis apartment where Mrs. Stoll was held had been shown by Stoll to be the one on which the $50,000 ransom note was written, threatening death to the victim and her family.

Two-Day-Old Trail is Picked Up Suddenly in Ohio City

Ernest Carper of Canton, who had the first experience with the gunman when he picked him up on the road from Peoria late yesterday afternoon and brought him here, said photographs of Robinson were closely resembled his passenger, described as peculiar acting.
Carper told Chief Cook that it might have been Robinson.
The hitch-hiker told Carper he was going to school at Macomb. Carper thought him too old for a student and said questions asked about highways to the west showed unfamiliarity with recent pavement construction.
Cook reported to federal agents by telephone.
At Springfield, officials of the state bureau of criminal investigation and identification said they knew of no developments in the hunt for Robinson.

FIND BILLS IN CHICAGO

Chicago, Oct. 18—(AP)—A restaurant cashier reported today he had talked to a man he was convinced was Thomas H. Robinson, Jr., demented youth sought for the kidnapping of Mrs. Berry V. Stoll.
The cashier said he had conversed with the suspect last night but a search of the Arena hotel on West Madison street today failed to turn up anyone answering the kidnapper's description.
Two five dollar bills were taken from the cash register, for comparison with the serial numbers of the currency which made up the $50,000 ransom.
The Chicago police say they believe Robinson may fall the victim of hoodlums because of the $49,500 ransom money he is thought to be carrying with him.
Robinson, a former inmate of an insane asylum, the police said, would be regarded as a "perfect sucker" by hoodlums, and expressed the opinion that they were hunting for him as diligently as the army of state, city and federal investigators attempting to run him down in five mid-western states.

LOANS OF CORN MUST BE PAID OR REWRITTEN

Lee County Supervisory Board Receives Instructions Today

Word has been received by J. M. Keay, Asst. Secretary of the Lee County Warehouse Supervisory Board, from Wm. S. Bradley of the Agricultural Adjustment Administration that applications for new warehouse certificates on corn now pledged as collateral for Commodity Credit Corporation loans may be accepted by Warehouse Supervisory Boards until the borrower receives notice from the Commodity Credit Corporation that his note is called. It is imperative, however, that producers wishing to borrow money on corn now held as collateral for outstanding notes to Commodity Credit Corporation immediately signify their intent on so doing by applying to their local Warehouse Supervisory Boards for reinspection and resealing of their corn.

On receipt of written application from the borrower outstanding notes held by Commodity Credit Corporation or one of its loan agencies will be sent to an approved local bank for collection. The borrower then is allowed 15 days in which to take up the note and effect a new loan under the 1934-1935 corn loan program.

Sealers may accept for resealing only corn that is stored in bins of permanent and sound construction, properly roofed and enclosed. Warehouse certificates must be resealed on all old corn stored in temporary bins or on all old corn that, in the judgment of the sealer, does not grade No. 4 or better. Whenever sealers find that, due to the unsatisfactory condition of the bins or of the corn, are ineligible for conversion, they must report those cases to the Division of Standardization and Markets at once. It is essential that this be done promptly.

Any producer who now has corn under seal must either pay off his note or arrange to have the corn resealed. If he waits until the loan has been called it will be too late for him to resal. If a producer desires to resal his corn he should get in touch with the office of the Warehouse Supervisory Board at once. The present loans cannot be carried as they are. They must either be paid off or new loans placed upon the corn.

Assistants Matron Mrs. Ella Zoller was in constant attendance. Stolls Interceded.
That more than desperation inspired the blonde prisoner's appeal was suggested by a statement of George Stoll, brother of Berry. For the family he expressed appreciation of consideration shown Mrs. Stoll by her. He asked authorities "to do x x x and permit us to do whatever possible to add to Mrs. Robinson's comfort."

Meanwhile, Mrs. Stoll was recuperating at home. Last night she was too exhausted to talk. However, she was up, her uncle, former U. S. Senator and Ambassador to Germany, Fred M. Sackett said. A policeman patrolling Line Kiln Lane enforced privacy about the 16-acre Stoll estate. A physician called twice. Cuts on her head—the kidnaper slugged her with an iron pipe—were healing, her husband said.
Except for the blow the day she was snatched she was treated like a lady," Perry Stoll added.
Sparks cited this blow when he said he would demand death or the younger Robinson under term of the Lindbergh law providing capital punishment in cases where the victim is injured, if the jury recommends it.

Buckaloo-Brader Wedding in DeKalb; Of Much Interest

A quiet wedding of much interest to Dixon friends and many in this vicinity is that which took place this afternoon at 3 o'clock at the parsonage to the First Methodist church in DeKalb, at which time the pastor, Rev. L. Spencer, officiated at the marriage of Miss Margaret Buckaloo of Dixon, and Durward Brader of Dixon.

The bride, a charming and attractive girl, who has made her home in Dixon, is the daughter of Allen Buckaloo of DeKalb. The bridegroom is the eldest son of Mr. and Mrs. John Brader of Oregon, a splendid young man, holding the position of bookkeeper and assistant secretary in the office of the Dixon Building and Loan Association.

Attending the couple for the ceremony, which was solemnized in the presence of the immediate relatives, were Miss Jane Buckaloo, sister of the bride of today and Charles Kettleson, both of DeKalb. The impressive Methodist Episcopal service was read, with the "Hail the King."

The bride was beautifully gowned in wine colored tulle and velvet, draped with silver cloth and made with the new tulle skirt effect. She wore a new wine velvet turban with silver veil. Her shoes and gloves were in wine color. She carried a muff made of the same material as her turban, on which was pinned a bouquet of gardenias.

Miss Jane Buckaloo, the maid of honor, wore a new brown crepe ensemble, with hat and accessories in the same color, and she wore a corsage of Italian roses.

After the ceremony Mr. Buckaloo, who gave his daughter in marriage, entertained the bridal party and the few relatives present, with a wedding dinner this evening at the Hotel Baker in St. Charles.

Both Mr. and Mrs. Brader are estimable young people with many friends both in Dixon and vicinity. She has been assisting Mrs. W. Sine at the Martin Shop and will continue to hold her position. Mr. and Mrs. Brader left on their honeymoon. She wore a black velvet and crepe gown with gold embroidery, a smart black turban and a black kidkin coat.

They will make their home at 324 E. Third street, in the cozy "Hill cottage" owned by Mr. and Mrs. Tilton, which has been newly remodeled. It has been furnished in a most attractive manner, much of the furniture being antique. The bride made by the capable needle fingers of the bride of today.

Hosts of friends will join in sending best wishes for happiness and success, to them.

"HE GIVETH HIS BELOVED SLEEP"
S DROPS the twilight's gauzy mantle down,
At close of day;
And darkness wraps the silent earth around,
From sight away;
We close our eyes in rapturous sleep,
Sure the Father watch will keep,
And with us stay.

So, when the twilight of our life draws near,
Life's little day;
And all the fleeting joys of life appear,
To pass away;
This message comes through darkness deep—
"He giveth His beloved sleep."
And lights the way.

Tested RECIPES

By MRS. ALEXANDER GEORGE
Doughnut Suggestions
Handle doughnut dough as little as possible. When frying, doughnuts should quickly come to the top, browned on under side, and they can then be easily turned to brown upper sides. The fat should be kept of uniform temperature during frying; if too hot the doughnuts brown before they are cooked inside, and if too cold the doughnuts will be flat and grease soaked.

Special Meeting Baldwin Auxiliary

A special meeting of Baldwin Auxiliary was held in G. A. R. hall Tuesday evening.
After the business meeting the ritual was exemplified. The fall meeting of Dist. No. 3, Department of Illinois, United Spanish War Veterans, will be held on Thursday, October 25th, in Memorial Hall in Rock Island, Ill.

It is hoped a good attendance from the Dixon Auxiliary will plan to go.
At the first meeting of Baldwin Auxiliary in November, the Dept. Pres., Edith Matlock, will be present for the inspection.

Interesting Meeting So. Central P. T. A. Wednesday

The South Central P. T. A. had a most interesting meeting at 3:45 Wednesday, Oct. 17th. It was largely attended. Miss Mulkins' room was the room with the best representation of mothers, ten mothers being present for that room.

Mrs. Robert Shaw, the president, very ably presided at the meeting. Mrs. I. B. Potter led the singing, with Miss Jamison as accompanist.

The secretary's report gave all the impression that last year's work in the Parent-Teacher Association had been worth while for all the members.

The standing committees were read by Mrs. Robert Shaw as follows:

Program Committee—Chairman, P. D. Merriman, Principal of the So. Central school, assisted by Miss Hazel Hecker, Mrs. L. W. Walter, Mrs. Robert Ball, Mrs. Robert L. Warner, Mrs. Raymond Worsley.

Membership Committee—Mrs. Don Billie, Mrs. Howard Edwards.
Hospitality Committee—Mrs. John K. Batchelder, Mrs. Claude Horton, Mrs. Werner Marloth.

The program proved a very good one for the afternoon.

Mrs. Shaw introduced Dr. C. H. LeSage, rising young Dixon physician, who gave a most interesting talk on Health.

Dr. LeSage told of the great advancement in medicine and in health, from the day when the stars and the great superstitions guided the healing of those who were ill.

The Boys' Patrol was introduced by Paul Marth who explained their duties and Margaret Mayes introduced the Girls' Patrol and gave their duties.

Mrs. Shaw next introduced

George Wardle, head of the Chicago Motor Club, who gave a very interesting and constructive talk on "The History of School Boys Patrol." It is an organization which should have the support of all for it does untold good. Mr. Wardle made it very plain that the adults do not, as a rule, give enough serious thought to the traffic rules, and that they do very things that the children are taught not to do. The Patrol System was organized in 1920 and has done a great deal of good.

Legion Auxiliary Installed Officers on Tuesday Evening

A special meeting of the American Legion Auxiliary was held in Legion Hall, Tuesday evening for the purpose of installing the officers for 1935.

The meeting was called to order by President Mace Kelly. After the seating of the officers with the colors the usual opening was followed. All business was suspended and before retiring from her office the president presented each of her officers and chairman with a personal gift. She was presented with a large box of candy from her husband.

The drill team from Mt. Morris was present to do the installation work and Mrs. Edson was ably assisted by her color bearers, sergeant-at-arms and musician. She was escorted to the president station under the colors and in her pleasing manner installed the following:—President, Marie B. Heller; second vice, Maud Curtis; junior vice, Anna Raffenberg; secretary, Louise Withers; treasurer, Viola E. Strub who has served in this office for the past three years; chaplain, Dorothy Teschendorff who has succeeded herself for three years; historian, Minnie Miller; Sergeant-at-Arms, Stella Hipple. Mrs. Kelly was escorted to the past president's station and in a few appropriate words, Stella Schmeucker presented her with the past president jewel. While the president was installed the pianist from Mt. Morris sang "For You."

The officers from Mt. Morris were each presented with a gift from the president, Mrs. Heller. The day being Lillian Stevens' birthday she was presented with several gifts, one being a cake baked and decorated by the retiring president. She accepted the gifts with words of appreciation and the kind thoughts that accompanied them.

A program of remarks from the patriotic organizations was introduced by the presentation of the Com. order of the American Legion, Walter Smith, to the president's station with the colors. His remarks were very fitting to the occasion and especially mentioned the report of the rehabilitation chairman, Lillian Stevens. Her report showed 268 packs of cigarettes, 270 pounds of carpet rags, 28 cigarette rollers and several other necessary articles had been sent to the North Chicago No. 105 hospital, which has 1159 disabled veterans.

The following program was given: piano number, Myrtle Bishop; reading, Anna Raffenberg; reading, Mrs. Albertina McKinney; whistling, Lynn Rosbrook, accompanied by Mrs. Chas. Rosbrook; vocal solo, Myrtle George accompanied by Mrs. Bishop.

Mrs. Heller was presented gifts from the Ladies of the G. A. R. Circle and Mrs. Ida Wright, a guest from California.

A committee of the younger members of the Auxiliary served refreshments to 75 visitors and guests.

Polo and Mt. Morris Auxiliaries were well represented.

Each one on the program responded with encores and were thanked by Mrs. Heller for their assistance in making this a perfect evening.

ONE FAIR QUESTION.

Lists of questions have been sent from numerous organizations to candidates for congress. Formerly one or two organizations were successful in carrying on such inquiries, but now the flood of questions makes it easy if not advisable to dodge them all.

There is a question, however, which we regard as a fair one for constituents to ask of their candidates. We believe it is fair to ask them whether or not they are going to vote to make permanent the legislation obtained by the New Dealers at the hands of a frightened congress on the ground that it was to meet an "emergency."

That is a fair question, because that legislation was obtained by insertion of clauses declaring that it was based upon an emergency. It is entitled to a fair answer.

When we say it is entitled to a fair answer we mean that it is not sufficient for a man to say he will retain that which is good and vote to eliminate that which is bad.

That is too much like the speech of a corn belt congressman during a time when revision of the tariff was an issue. He made speeches every day telling his wondering constituents that he favored a revision of the tariff, that duties that were too high should be lowered and that duties that were too low should be raised.

To make such an answer is to beg the question, of course.

The question applies to the extraordinary powers given the president, transferred from the legislative and judiciary departments to that of the executive.

Relief measures, of course, disappear with the emergency. They are not included in the question that requires an answer.

Every voter is entitled to know whether or not a candidate will vote to make permanent the extraordinary powers transferred to the executive to meet the emergency.

BALKAN CROWNS SIT LIGHTLY.

Although the cause of "democracy" has not flourished particularly since the World War, and dictators have sprung up to usurp more than kingly powers, the business of being a king is not greatly attractive to a young man seeking an occupation. Particularly is this true in the Balkans, and most especially in that section of the hot spot known as Yugoslavia.

King Alexander, who was assassinated in France, was a tragic example of the saying, "Uneasy lies the head that wears a crown." Alexander, a few months before the murder at Sarajevo in 1914, had mounted the throne to succeed his father, King Peter, who abdicated in favor of his son. Peter's rise to power had come after the assassination of both King Alexander Obrenovich and Queen Draga who died in 1903.

No sooner had the last Alexander taken up the reigns than he had to face the World War and go through those fiery years in which his people were literally driven out of Serbia. With the peace of Versailles, however, he found himself restored as ruler not only of Serbia, but of a patchwork of mongrel races and territories conceived by those who gave Europe a New Deal under leadership of Woodrow Wilson.

Alexander really was not the "crown prince" at all. He was Peter's second son. But the first son, George, was cursed with a violent temper. In a fit of rage he slew a servant in 1909 and certain interests helped him to make up his mind that he was too hot-headed to be a king. So he cast his mantle upon the shoulders of the milder Alexander.

Settled firmly upon the throne of the bigger and better empire known as Yugoslavia, Alexander at once met a test, the result of which made him unpopular. The seaport of Fiume was being claimed simultaneously by Yugoslavia, Italy and Hungary. Of course Hungary, being one of the defeated powers, had no chance. But Italy seized the port and the Yugoslavians demanded war against Italy. Alexander temporized, then compromised and signed the treaty of Rapallo, by which Fiume became a free port.

Assassins made attempts upon Alexander's life in 1916, 1920 and 1921. It was his assumption of dictatorship and the series of events which made it apparent, at least to his enemies, that he had sold out to Italy and France, that really doomed Alexander.

Alexander was burdened by a sorrow arising from another political assassination. Before the World War he had been engaged to the Grand Duchess Tatiana, eldest daughter of Czar Nicholas of Russia. During the war he led his soldiers bravely, hoping for the day when he could marry Tatiana and seal a strong alliance with the powerful Russia. In the Russian revolution, however, the noble progenitors of the present Russian government herded the czar and his whole family, including Tatiana, into a basement at Ekaterinburg and shot them in cold blood.

In June, 1922, Alexander married Princess Marie, second daughter of King Ferdinand and Queen Marie of Rumania. She is one of Europe's most beautiful women of royal blood, and before her alliance with Alexander she was mentioned frequently as eligible to become the bride of the Prince of Wales. She is the sister of King Carol of Rumania, who renounced his throne in favor of Prince Michael and ran away to Paris with an adventuress, only to change his mind later and oust his son. Thus Michael found at an early age that the business of being a king is uncertain.

What fun it was to have a ride upon the cake cart. Doty cried "Hey, Scouty, we have had our turn. Let's let the others try."

"Well hop right off and do our part, by helping push this funny cart. Then, maybe we can have another nice ride, bye and bye."

"Okay!" cried Scouty. "That seems fair. The Tintinies are over there." And then he shouted to the bunch, "Come on, and hop aboard."

"You'll find this is a lot of fun. Then came the Tintinies on the run. Wee Duncy reached the cake cart first. 'I am next,' he loudly roared."

"Now, just for that," a baker said, "we will let the others go ahead. I want to teach you it is not nice to be so selfish, son."

"You all can ride before we are through, so there was no real cause for you to yell so loudly to be next. By good boys that is not done."

"Aw, shucks, I am always getting blamed," said Duncy, but he felt ashamed. He watched the others take a ride, and then he had one, too.

Soon one wee baker shouted, "Say, we have pushed you around enough today. Now I am going to call the birds down, and see what they will do."

Soon Goldy cried, "For heaven sake! The birds are eating our roll cake, and now they are at our doughnuts. That's the end of our fine cart."

All of the bakers smiled. Then one said, "Well, you've had your share of fun. Now let the birds have theirs. They'll be filled up ere they depart."

"That's fair enough," said Goldy. "Gee they seem as hungry as can be." Just then a funny peck came gave all the bunch a scare. Ere Duncy had a chance to speak, the bird scooped him up in its beak, and with a flapping of the wings, took him into the air.

(Scouty goes to Duncy's rescue in the next story.)

WEEKLY SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON

Text: Matt. 6:5-15.

By WM. E. GILROY, D. D.

(Editor of Advance).

It would solve most of our problems of prayer if we would give more heed to the teaching of Jesus and to His example and concern ourselves less with conventional theories and practices.

Nothing seems harder than to rid the mind of the average Christian of the idea that prayer is primarily an asking for things or a method of getting things from God. Such a notion is against all the teaching, direct and implied, that Jesus gave us concerning God, His relationship to us, and our relationship to Him.

Elemental to this relationship is the fact that Jesus emphasized "the Father knoweth the things ye have need of before ye ask Him."

The God to whom we pray is a Father of love and mercy, who above all things, is anxious to do for us the best that He can do. What He can accomplish in us, and what He can confer upon us, is limited by our willingness to receive and by the attitude that opens or closes the door of our hearts.

So it is that in our lesson we have the primary emphasis upon prayer as fellowship with God. That is the occasion of our praying that we may know God, and that we may be so transformed through knowledge of Him that we may be fitted to receive the gifts of His grace.

To know God is to share His life and His love. Inevitably in that knowledge the sense of our need changes. We are less ready to ask for the things that we might desire for ourselves in our earthly and worldly thought of prayer, and we are the more ready to perceive the greatest treasures that God has for us.

Prayer is not a form, nor is it a ritual, though we may use both form and ritual in prayer. Prayer is the secret aspiration of the soul toward God.

It may be expressed or it may be so deep that the soul cannot express it, but can have only the inexpressible yearning that God can see and understand.

We should not pray to God as one who can be moved by persistent solicitations as some earthly-minded person might be. The teaching of the parable of the importunate widow and the unjust judge, who heard her and granted her request because of her persistence, is not that God yields to our persistence to give us things that are out of harmony with His mercy and His grace, but that God, being merciful and gracious, is ready beforehand to bestow upon us the things that we are willing to receive.

The meaning of that parable is that if an unjust judge can be moved by much asking, how much more can God give to us His gifts where we are willing to ask and receive.

Our lesson suggests, however, that prayer should not all be left to unexpressed thought or feeling. Jesus taught His disciples to pray. He gave them a form of prayer in words that have come down to us rich in the beauty of their content and experience.

We should not only use the Lord's Prayer, but we should make it a model for our praying. It suggests the principles of true prayer, the complete surrender of the soul to the will of God and the divine purposes of love and forgiveness, and the aspiration for the good life in which men become like the God to whom they pray.

What Happens Inside when you take a Laxative?

NATURE'S WAY—a gentle flush. Most medicine laxatives work by irritating the delicate membranes of the digestive tract—lose their force when taken regularly. Pluto Water is not a drug or medicine—laxative but a saline mineral water. The same amount each time—no need to increase it—always performs, does not gripe, gives results in less than one hour.

Pluto Water is gentle, effective—but speedy. It promptly opens the pyloric valve—permits the flush to enter the intestines without any loss of water. The proper dilution—one-fifth glass Pluto in four-fifths glass hot water—is practically tasteless. Take it when ever sluggish—and end that laxative habit! Two sizes: Spills (8 ounces), 25c. DROUTH HITTING AT 1935 CROPS; FALL VERY DRY

Pastures and New Seed- ing Suffer: Plow- ing Impossible

Chicago, Oct. 17—(AP)—Drought, which devastated crops in the mid-west this year, seems to be striking early at 1935 crops.

This conclusion was drawn by weather bureau officials after receiving reports of a large moisture deficiency throughout the middle west for the month of October, normally the last heavy moisture month until spring.

Little or no rain has fallen this month in any of the central division states—Illinois, Indiana, Michigan, Wisconsin, Iowa, Missouri, Nebraska, Kansas and the Dakotas. Also affected by the fall anticyclone of the weather are Ohio, Kentucky, Arkansas, Oklahoma and a portion of Tennessee.

As a result, officials said, farmers are finding the ground too dry and hard for plowing in many areas, and pastures and new seedings are suffering from the lack of rain.

Offsetting Factor
The only factor offsetting the seriousness of the situation, they reported, was the fact that the entire area received heavy rains in September which stored some moisture in the previously parched ground.

This was not true, however, of the Dakotas and western Minnesota, which also suffered the most severely from the drought last spring and summer.

Officials would make no definite comment as to the prospects for next year, but pointed out that this year's crops were greatly damaged by a drought which did not begin until spring and that there was plenty of rainfall throughout the area in October, 1933, as compared to the deficiency for this month.

ASHTON NEWS

By E. TILTON

ASHTON—The dedication of the new addition of the Presbyterian church will be held following a supper at the Presbyterian church on Friday evening. The supper will be held in the new addition and will be in the nature of an indoor picnic with each family contributing toward the meal. The members and their friends are cordially invited to attend.

Rev. Stevens, formerly a pastor of the Ashton Presbyterian church, and now living in South Dakota, has been a guest of many friends in the community and spoke at the morning service of the church on Sunday.

FURS CARRY PERFUME BEST

Beauties Should Select Pelts to Harmonize With Complexion

Grace Moore follows the edict of white furs for blondes and like all popular women, has a fine sense for the proper use of perfume.

By ALICIA HART
NEA Service Staff Writer

October is the month when smart women begin to think about the subtle details of beauty. The obvious things—reconditioning treatments for skin, hair and figure—were attended to in September and now a girl can settle down to some of the more glamorous aspects of good grooming.

She can think about perfume and furs, for instance. Of course furs generally are considered to be in the fashion rather than the cosmetic category, but since modern makers of perfume are sponsoring certain scents for certain furs, we find ourselves doubly interested in both subjects purely from a standpoint of beauty.

A famous couturier tells us that long-haired furs are most flattering to blondes. Then he goes on to say that white fox makes the perfect collar for a fair-skinned girl's evening wrap. He adds that short-haired furs are for sophisticated types and that brown furs are perfect for brunettes.

An equally famous maker of perfumes declares there is real economy in putting perfume directly on your furs. The scene lingers a good deal longer than it does on cloth and seems to stay fresh and pleasant as long as it lasts. He suggests rather sweet odors—gardenia, for example, on fox furs, spicy perfumes on short-haired varieties, and subtle, elusive scents on the luxury furs, including mink, ermine and sable.

Use an atomizer, of course. It will save your perfume. And, more than that, the odor remains longer where each individual hair is sprayed.

take either sewing or manual training but are unable to finance the purchase of materials, will be investigated and the work undertaken at the approval of the committee, composed of Mrs. Julia Cocking and Miss Blanche Canfield with the president, Mrs. Inez Hogan.

The next meeting of the club will be the annual dinner to the club members and families. It will be held October 26 at the M. E. church at Chana.

The first meeting in November will be held at the home of Mrs. Florence Rae Stroh of Stillman Valley on November 9. The meeting is in charge of the committee on Conservation, Mrs. Roy Cross and Mrs. Edith Tilton. Mrs. Stroh is past district president of the Thirteenth District of Illinois Women's club and a very active club member.

The speaker will be Mrs. Helen Spear, chairman of Conservation of the 13th District, and a most interesting speaker. The date approaches so closely the annual Armistice Day celebration, the roll call will be a quotation suitable for Armistice Day.

Miss Nadine Dailey of Dubuque is a guest of her grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Dailey.

The farewell dinner given the Rev. C. D. Wilson was well attended by friends on Sunday evening. The Rev. Wilson is retiring from active ministry, after many years of service to his church, and it is with deep regret that his many friends of the community see him leave. It is the sincere wish of all that his health may be soon restored and that he often return to visit with his many friends in the Ashton and Franklin Grove pastorates.

Weather conditions have been ideal for the soy bean harvest and local farmers have been busy at the task which is now beginning to be very well completed.

The Ashton Woman's club will begin its 1934-35 series of monthly programs when Mrs. Myrtle Herr, Galeana, addresses the club on Monday, October 29th. The regular date of meeting has changed in this instance in order to secure Mrs. Herr as the speaker. Mrs. Herr is president of the Thirteenth District of the Illinois Federated Women's clubs.

Mrs. Ed Ventier is hostess. The program is in charge of the American home department under the chairmanship of Mesdames Carson Cross and William Schade.

Among those from Ashton Woman's clubs who will attend the state meeting of I. F. W. C. at Sterling on October 23 are Miss Lucille Hart, Mrs. W. A. Hall, Mrs. R. E. Losey. From the Pine Rock club the following plan attending, Mrs. Inez Hogan, Mrs. Ruby Bolthouse, Mrs. Julia Cocking, Miss Blanche Canfield, Miss H. Southwick, Mrs. Ed Southwick, Mrs. Harry Acker and Mrs. Edith Tilton.

Mr. and Mrs. Fred Scheffer of Rockford move this week into the farm home of Mrs. Margaret Clover. Mrs. Clover and daughter, Miss Jessie are moving to town, occupying the Beach residence, formerly tenanted by the Parker family.

Mr. and Mrs. Ward Bucher, bride and groom of the past month, were victims of a charivari on Saturday evening.

At the annual meeting of the Washington Grove Cemetery Association the following officers were elected to serve the association for the coming year.

PRESIDENT AND BUSINESS HEADS TO END QUARREL?

Seeking to Find Common Ground to Tackle Recovery Plans

Washington, Oct. 18—(AP)—Efforts to bury the hatchet that has gleamed in several exchanges between President Roosevelt and some leaders of business are becoming apparent.

Signs that the White House and some spokesmen for business are finding more common ground in their approach to certain recovery problems were underscored today when it became clear that Roosevelt's intentions on rural housing bear marked resemblances to the views of Henry I. Harriman, president of the Chamber of Commerce of the United States.

The President let it be known yesterday that he favors an expansion of rural building activities, as well as slum clearance. The home building in rural communities, which fits into Roosevelt's often-stressed ideas for decentralization of industry, was described as aimed to get people off relief rolls.

In Similar Vein
About the same time, in a speech at Memphis, Tenn., Harriman was tackling the problems of "unemployment and economic insecurity" in similar vein.

"The real cure of the situation," said his address as distributed here, "is a gradual decentralization of our workers from the center to the periphery of metropolitan areas and the establishment of our working people in homes with two or more acres of good land available for cultivation."

The tenor of the speech was regarded as significant because less than a month ago the directors of the chamber, seeking that many business men call "assurances," were publicly propounding a list pointed questions to the President, who gave the queries a cool reception. In a press conference, in which he expressed a feeling that some business men had too many inhibitions, he made clear he would not answer the questions.

More Conferences
Since that time the President has made a radio talk to the nation, and a series of conferences with bankers and business men has started at the White House.

Although some business men are said to feel disappointed that the speech did not contain assurances about monetary policy and expenditures, Harriman said:

"I would cite President Roosevelt's radio address of September 30 as containing many hopeful indications of the President's attitude toward business."

The President makes a speech to the American Bankers Association next Wednesday. All observers are waiting to see what effect it will have on relations between the business community and the White House.

MRS. JAY HANNA DEAN SAYS SHE'S VERY DIZZY TOO

Tells All the Indiosyn-crasies of the Famous Pitching Deans

New York, Oct. 18.—(AP)—Take a seat, please, beside Mrs. Jay Hanna Dean, pert, pretty young wife of big Dizzy, and hear something more of the famous Dazzling Deans, pitching champions of the world.

Dexter Park, in the far reaches of Brooklyn, is packed, so Mrs. Dean must sit in the press box back of home plate, while her weary husband makes his metropolitan barnstorming appearance with the Bushwicks, versus the Black Yankees. Dizzy is pitching his three inning stint as though he were still facing the Tigers in the world series.

He's arguing with the umpire, a pompous little fellow in ice cream pants who seems to take a great delight in calling them against Ducky Medwick, who is playing a mild left field for a change, Paul Dean, whose arm is so sore he can not pitch but plays right field, and the great daisy one.

Says Diz Needs Rest
"Diz is mad," she confides in her Texas drawl. "I always know when he's mad. It's time I took him home to Bradenton to rest. We'll leave just as soon as he finishes his vaudeville act Tuesday, two weeks."

The umpire had just called a Negro runner safe when he stole home after dropping a flyball into right field that Paul Dean kicked into a triple. This was roaring. "You know what Diz did once in St. Louis when he got mad at an umpire. It was Ernie Quigley or Charlie Moran. He ran in from the box, grabbed him by the back of the neck, bent his head over the plate and yelled:

"Can you bend over, you old blankety blank? Can you see it, you blind so and so? Well, take a good look. I ain't pitchin' for your amusement."

Umpire Just Laughed
"The umpire just laughed. Wasn't that nice of him?"

Paul and Dizzy are going to share $30,000 profits on this tour, Mrs. Dean reveals proudly. It's divided evenly. Most of this luck, she says, comes of her finding a four-leaf clover near the Cardinals' dugout in the Polo Grounds the day Dizzy and Paul beat the Giants twice and started the New Yorkers' collapse.

"Mel Ott told me long he's been playing here, he never saw another four leaf clover in the Polo Grounds."

Duffy and Dizzy have no superstitions. Are they ever serious? never.

Are Never Serious
"Look at Paul out there. Isn't he the slowest, laziest, gangliest thing you ever saw? I swear, sometimes I think we'll have to tie him up in baling wire to keep his arms from falling off. When the series was over and they gave Dizzy $500 just for exhibiting in a window that silly pitch helmet he picked up somewhere, Paul said seriously:

"Diz is someone kiddin' us about this kind of money? We ain't done nuthin' but win a couple of ball games."

"Paul, he doesn't care whether school keeps or not. I wish Diz had his disposition. He's burning up on the go all the time, can't keep still a minute. Now Paul, he's the quietest, sitstingest man you ever saw."

It seems that Paul's reported engagement in St. Louis, where a bridal suite was engaged for him by another ball player, was only a practical joke, much to Mrs. J. H. Dean's sorrow.

"I wish he would get married. Diz is small boy enough. Two of them...."

The Deans' chores are over and it's time to leave. How did she meet Dizzy?

"I met him El Houston. I had a date with him Monday night. We were engaged Tuesday night. We got our wedding license Wednesday. And we were married Thursday night."

"I guess when folks hear that, they'll think I am dizzy, too."

VIOLA CENTER

Viola Center—Morris July has purchased a new automobile. Mrs. Arthur Montavon had the misfortune of falling and breaking two bones in her foot one day last week, but the injury is getting along very satisfactorily.

Miss Teresa Haefner of Mendota was a week end visitor with Miss Florence Bresson.

Mr. and Mrs. Wendell Swope and family accompanied by Mr. and Mrs. Wellington Swope and son spent Saturday shopping in Rockford.

A number from this community attended the ball game at Walton Sunday.

The many friends of little Raymond Vincent are very glad that he had the cast removed from his leg and is able to walk again.

Teachers from this community are attending the annual institutes in Dixon and Oregon Thursday and Friday. Among them are Mrs. Clarence Walter, Mrs. George Bresson, Helen Mackin and the Misses Florence and Sylvia Bresson.

Guests at the Wendell Swope home Sunday were Mr. and Mrs. George Kerchner of Rochelle, Mr. and Mrs. Howard Bodmer and family and Mr. and Mrs. Henry Kehm.

Chief Deputy Sheriff Ward Miller was a business visitor in this community Tuesday afternoon.

Ridin' High With the Upper Hand

Here's the answer to what an irresistible force does when it meets an immovable object—it goes up and over. The irresistible force here is Dahlgren, Michigan State's right guard, who found a pileup in front of him that was immovable when he tried to tackle Bill Spisak, No. 23 in the white jersey, Carnegie Tech halfback. So he took to the air and brought his man down in the game which State won, 13-0.

VERSATILITY IS ATTRIBUTE BOB ZUPPKE'S TEAM

Illini Grid Athletes
Good at Many Other
College Sports

Champaign, Ill., Oct. 18.—(AP)—Versatility, one of the prime attributes that Bob Zuppke strives to encourage in developing his Illinois football teams, has not been neglected by members of the present pennant contending Illinois squad, for at least 23 members now battling for grid positions are proficient in other sports.

Frank Froschauer is captain of basketball team and is supported on the hardwood by Jack Beynon, Lee Lindbergh, Wilbur Henry, Bob Cook, Bob Reigel, Bill Waller, and Bill Gibbs.

Andy Dahl, who has been playing first string tackle, is co-captain of the wrestling team and was runner-up for the 175 pound title in the Big Ten last year. Chuck Galbreath also showed promise as a wrestler until he was forced to withdraw when it was evident he could not avoid cauliflower ears.

Al Adams, halfback, won third in the Big Ten broad jump last spring; Bart Cummings, who regained eligibility yesterday and will resume his battle for an end position, throws the shot and discus; Hank Bruder, guard, is Track Coach Don Seaton's most promising shot putted; Vin Van Meter took third place in the Big Ten javelin throw last spring; Bob Wright qualified for the conference low hurdles; and Bob Grieve and Crain Portman, Zuppke's pony backs, are dash stars.

Henry is also a baseball prospect, and Julie Hoeft and Augie Howalski may team up as pitcher and catcher on the diamond squad.

Earl Jansen, diminutive halfback, is a diver of no mean rating. LaRue Morris, prospective tackle, won laurels as an intramural boxer.

COCHRANE WINS MOST VALUABLE PLAYER HONORS

Detroit Manager is Voted Title by Baseball Writers

Chicago, Oct. 18.—(AP)—Mickey Cochrane, the "Iron Mike" who led Detroit out of second division to the pennant in his first season as ringmaster of the Tigers, today was named the most valuable player in the American League for the second time since 1928.

Of the eight ballots cast, Cochrane was named first on six, Gehring on one and Rowe on another so that all eight firsts, counting 10 votes each, went to Detroit players. The fact that Cochrane's name did not appear on one ballot resulted in the close point total between himself and Gehring.

Only Senators Missing

Nineteen players, including stars on every club except the down-fallen Senators, received votes. Jimmie Fox, home run slugger of the Athletics and winner of the award last year, was tenth with only 11 votes. For the first time since the award was made an annual honor in 1922, Babe Ruth's name was missing, even on the honorable mention list of 19 names.

The Detroit club, which purchased Cochrane from Philadelphia last December for a reported sum of $100,000, found him such a great investment that yesterday it awarded him a $10,000 bonus.

AT LEAST FOUR EXPLOSIONS DUE LATE SATURDAY

Will Mark Smearing of Perfect Records of Contending Teams

New York, Oct. 18.—(AP)—Those loud detonations you'll hear around dusk Saturday will be the exploding of at least four of football's undefeated and untied records at Pittsburgh, Birmingham, New York and Cambridge.

Barring ties which would cut both ways, either Pitt or Minnesota will walk the plank of defeat in Pitt stadium. At Birmingham it will be either Alabama or Tennessee whose record is smeared. Columbia and Navy stake perfect records at New York, Harvard and Holy Cross at Cambridge.

Incidentally, it is a significant tip-off on a topsy-turvy season that there are so few major games involving undefeated and untied teams on so early a date in the campaign. Ordinarily there would be a dozen or more but the string of upsets that started with the opening of the season has decimated the ranks of schools which ordinarily wait until late in November, if at all, before joining the list of the defeated.

If you don't believe it, take a look at the Big Ten where the fun has barely begun yet Michigan, Purdue, Indiana, Iowa, Ohio State and Northwestern all have been wiped out at least once. Or the Pacific Coast conference where Washington's huskies alone have escaped defeat or tie.

Minnesota, coached by Bernie Bierman, have been hailed by mid-western critics as the outstanding team of that section, the Big Ten's main contender for the national championship, mythical or otherwise. Pitt, already victorious over Washington & Jefferson, West Virginia and Southern California, should supply the answer to the question: "Just how good is Minnesota?" There's power in that Gopher running attack but Jack Sutherland's knack for developing tough-fibered forwards is too well known to need re-statement.

The Alabama-Tennessee struggle stands out like a highlight on the southern program. Alabama has been rated a prime contender for the Southeastern Conference crown from the start of fall training and the Crimson Tide has shown great power in rolling up 100 points on Howard, Sewanee and Mississippi State. Sewanee scored the only touchdown against the Tide. Tennessee, rated below par in pre-season forecasts, has been a distinct surprise with a 32-0 conquest of Centre; a 19-7 victory over North Carolina which last week upset Georgia; and a 27-0 rout of Mississippi which had been expected to extend the Vols.

Columbia is the majority choice against Navy but the Lions' problem will be to stop Buzz Borries, sparkplug of the Midshipmen's attack. Lou Little's outfit, beset by injuries to the line squad where replacements are scarce, perhaps does not loom quite so formidable as last season's Rose Bowl victors, but it is a first-class team just the same with at least one outstanding back in Al Barabas. Navy has shown encouraging progress under Tom Hamilton's leadership and Saturday's encounter should be close.

Holy Cross has been touted for weeks as one of the east's most powerful arra; but the Crusaders so far have not been seriously tested. The Harvard game should be adequate measuring stick not only for Holy Cross but for the Crimson as well. Harvard made full use of its opportunities against Brown last week and then showed surprising defensive strength in holding off the Bruin's scoring threats. Holy Cross may be in for a warmer afternoon than it expected.

Caves Used for Mushrooms
The famous Chislehurst caves in Kent comprise 22 miles of underground passages, etc. They are 50 feet deep, and could accommodate 80,000 persons. Most of the caves are used for the cultivation of mushrooms.—London Mail.

Revivals of Old
The modern revival may be said to date from the middle of the nineteenth century. The revival of 1740-42 was called the Great Awakening, but after that period, the term, revival, came into use.

BODY OF SLAIN ALEXANDER WAS ENTOMBED TODAY

An Atmosphere of Terror Prevailed Throughout Yugoslavia

(By CHAS. M. MEISTER.)
(Copyright, 1934, by The Associated Press.)

Belgrade, Oct. 18.—The body of the murdered King Alexander was placed today near those of his ancestors in the Royal Memorial Chapel in his native city of Topol.

While 50 men bore the sarcophagus up a hill, through tree-lined lanes to the chapel all activities throughout Yugoslavia remained at a standstill for two minutes as the common people paid tribute to their fallen king.

Then, as Alexander was laid in the tomb which he had only recently completed, church bells were tolled throughout the country. They mingled strangely with heavy guns on land and sea which roared out a mighty dirge.

Trumpeters sounded a farewell taps for the dead soldier-sovereign, "Miknon," as Alexander called his wife, the Dowager Queen Marie, took leave of her royal consort and the doors of the tomb were closed.

Troops Patrol Route
Massed thousands of mourners were held back by troops standing shoulder to shoulder as the funeral train passed from Belgrade to Topol. Only children were allowed on the right side of the route, enabling troops to supervise more efficiently the activities of adults on the left.

Spectators were not allowed to carry canes or umbrellas, despite a drizzling rain. An atmosphere of terror prevailed, lest anarchists attempt to take the lives of the three kings in the funeral cortege—little Peter II, son of Alexander, Carol of Rumania, his uncle; and Boris of Bulgaria.

Secret service men made many arrests as they mingled among the crowd, seeking firearms and bombs. As the coffin was being taken to the tomb at Topol, in the nation's Pantheon, the widowed Queen Marie, her mother, the Dowager Queen Marie of Rumania, and little King Peter walked directly behind it.

In Red Scout Uniform
Peter was in a greyish-green Boy Scout uniform and wore a red and black cap. He seemed on the verge of tears but was consoled by his mother, who bent over and patted him on the cheek, whispering encouraging words.

In strong contrast to the solemn mien of the royal mourners was King Carol, who had almost a jaunty air. He chatted with President Lebrun of France and his aide-de-camp.

The Duke of Kent, fourth son of King George of England, and his fiancée, Princess Marina of Greece, were in the procession. They had special occasion to remember Alexander because he promoted their match.

Hermann Wilhelm Goerring, Premier of Prussia and Chancellor Hitler's representative at the funeral, was a striking figure in the grey-green uniform of a general as he walked between two officials of the Austrian government.

All Lights Extinguished
During the funeral all lights in Belgrade were extinguished as a mark of respect to the king.

Requiem services in the cathedral here before the train departed for Topol were deeply impressive. Standing before Alexander's coffin, the Patriarch Varmava of the Serbian orthodox church eulogized Alexander as "a knightly king under whose crown and sceptre the divergent peoples of Yugoslavia have been united."

Alexander's dying words, "Save Yugoslavia," he said, were a precious legacy which the nation would fulfill with "all honor and glory to our chivalrous king and unifier."

All members of the royal family participated in the church services. The bereaved Queen Marie was a picture of maternal compassion. At her side stood the tiny princes Tomislav and Andreas, touching her dress.

Boys Unrealizing
Too young to realize the significance of the occasion, they looked around the cathedral with boyish curiosity and then at their big brother, Peter.

As the coffin was being removed from the cathedral to a gun carriage, two days of steady rain was suddenly dispelled by a bright sun which cast silvery rays on the flag-draped sarcophagus.

Simultaneously more than 100 Yugoslav, French, Czechoslovakian and Russian airplanes soared majestically overhead.

Insisting that they must have the honor of bearing their master and king through the streets of the capital to the railway station, 36 members of the king's guard replaced the horses which were to have pulled the gun carriage.

Planes Drop Flowers
The hysterical sobbing of women would be heard above the funeral march as the gun carriage moved slowly through the vast throngs.

At the station where Peter, other members of royalty and distinguished foreign delegates took positions by the coffin, military detachments from England, France, Czechoslovakia, Rumania, Greece and Turkey filed by, saluting the dead king and the boy who replaces him.

Hundreds of airplanes dropped showers of flowers on the royal train as it pulled out of the station on the king's last ride to Topol.

Birds Have High Temperature
The temperature of birds is higher than in any other animal. It is from 100 to 112 degrees. Naturally the circulation is more rapid.

Hiding Child's Body in Furnace

Panic stricken after having killed 5-year-old Nancy Jean Costigan, Lawrence Stone, 24, is said to have, confiding placing her body in the furnace the building in which she was visiting relatives in Mount Vernon, N. Y. A detective is shown examining the firebox of the oil burning furnace in which her cremated bones were found.

SAYS ILLINOIS FARMERS HAVE AMPLE FORAGE

State Drought Relief Administrator Re- ports, Resigns

Springfield, Ill., Oct. 18.—(AP)—J. H. Lloyd, assistant director of agriculture, today ended his work as state drought relief administrator with a report that Illinois farmers whose crops were damaged by dry weather and high temperatures last summer now have good forage supplies.

Governor Horner, granting Lloyd's request to be relieved of the complete work, commended him for "intelligent and effective service."

Lloyd announced that $370,455.65 worth of feeds and seeds were distributed to about 12,000 farmers in the 84 drought counties.

"As a result of the effort put forth to speed delivery of seeds, to day the good crops of forage produced from drought relief seeds are being harvested and will furnish much needed winter feed for livestock," he said.

The drought relief work has carried on in cooperation with the regular relief agencies. A federal grant of $500,000 was obtained and loans made to farmers. Emergency freight rates were arranged and seed was purchased through a centralized federal agency.

Loans totaling $474,617.67 were made to 6329 farmers, who have repaid $16,309.05 in cash and $11,477.33 by work on relief projects. The five per cent notes come due Jan. 1, but plans are to extend them through another crop season.

War as Is
"War," said H. Ho, the sage of Chinatown, "is too often waged with relentless shrewdness by mercenary noncombatants."

CHECK FOR WORK RELIEF WILL BE DRAWN LOCALLY

New Plan to Eliminate Delays in Payment of Laborers

Under the new decentralization plan for accounting, auditing and disbursing procedures recently adopted by the Illinois Emergency Relief Commission, checks for work relief and other disbursements in Lee County will be written at the offices of the Lee County Emergency Relief Committee in Dixon, it was announced today by David H. Spencer, chairman of the committee.

L. L. Wilhelm has been appointed disbursing officer for the Lee County Emergency Relief Committee. The details of bookkeeping and the distribution of the signed checks will be handled by the county committee.

"The new plan provides for prompt payment of obligations incurred locally," said Chairman Spencer. "As developed by the Illinois Emergency Relief Commission in cooperation with the Federal Emergency Relief Administration, it increases local responsibility in the administration of relief by the state commission."

Writing the relief checks here will eliminate delays that in some cases necessitated duplications of aid to some families, he said, since it has been necessary at times to give clients food orders to tide them over the period during which their checks were in transit.

The "staggered" system of issuing work relief pay checks will be discontinued under the new plan and all payrolls will be submitted and paid on a weekly basis.

Monthly budgets to meet Lee County's relief needs will continue to be drawn up by the county committee subject to the approval of the Illinois Emergency Relief Commission.

The Clew of the Forgotten Murder

By CARLETON KENDRAKE
©1934 NEA Service Inc.

BEGIN HERE TODAY
When DAN BLEEKER, publisher of The Blade, learns that CHARLES FISHER, police reporter, has been mysteriously killed he determines to employ SIDNEY GRIFF, famous criminologist to solve the murder.

Morden had been assigned to learn all he could about FRANK B. CATHAY, scoundrel and prominent who had threatened to sue The Blade because the newspaper reported Cathay had been arrested. Later it was proven that the man arrested, giving the name of Cathay and accompanied by a girl called MARY BRIGGS, was an impostor. The Blade published a retraction.

Then Morden is found dead and a few hours later comes news that Cathay is dead—possibly poisoned.

Sidney Griff undertakes the case. He calls the doctors and then goes to see CHARLES FISHER, Cathay's friend and lawyer. Cathay's friend and lawyer.

CHAPTER XIII
GRIFF had been listening to the lawyer intently. "How long," he asked, "was this reporter in Riverview?"

"Just a day I think. Perhaps not a day. I don't know. He made some investigation and made some comments. He spent most of his time in the office of The Riverview Chronicle, a newspaper, by the way, which has been hostile to Mr. Cathay's political candidacy for membership in the city council."

"Did that man," asked Griff, "call on you, counselor?"

"No, certainly not. He was collecting evidence which would have a tendency to undermine my client's reputation. Naturally, he would hardly have called upon me."

"You didn't know him then?"

"No."

"Perhaps then," said the criminologist, "you entirely missed the significance of the account in The Blade this morning of the murder of one of its reporters."

Charles Fisher gripped the edges of his desk. His head was thrust forward. His eyes fastened upon the criminologist's face and gradually grew wider and wider.

"Good heavens!" he said. "You don't mean to tell me... it can't be... it isn't... that is, it wasn't the same man?"

Griff nodded.

Charles Fisher got slowly to his feet. He mopped his forehead with a handkerchief, regarded Griff with wide, startled eyes.

"Now," said Fisher slowly, "I can understand your interest in the matter. I understand who is employing you."

Griff remained silent.

The attorney looked at his watch, went to the window and stood with his back to Griff, looking down at the street. He turned at length to the criminologist.

"Has the newspaper," he asked, "any idea of the motive for the murder?"

Griff shrugged his shoulders.

"Really, counselor," he said, "I can't tell you just what the news paper knows or what it suspects."

CHARLES FISHER made clucking noises with his tongue against the roof of his mouth and shook his head from side to side, after the manner of one who has heard most disagreeable news.

Griff got to his feet. "Is there," asked Fisher with a forced attempt at his old cordiality "anything I can do to assist you, Mr. Griff, which will not in any way conflict with my professional obligations to my clients?"

Griff smiled at him. "I think not," he said. "The two men shook hands."

Griff went at once to a public telephone, called the office of Dr. P. C. Cooper and explained to the nurse that it was quite important that he talk with Doctor Cooper upon a personal matter.

A moment later he heard Doctor Cooper's voice on the wire.

"This is Griff, Doctor Cooper," he said, "the criminologist who called on you earlier this morning."

"Yes," said Doctor Cooper in a tone that was calm and wary. "What is it you wish, Mr. Griff?"

"I just wanted to tell you," Griff said, "that I have been in communication with the counsel who is representing Mrs. Frank B. Cathay, and that the Cathays are planning to have you cited before the medical board because of the statements you made concerning the symptoms of Mr. Frank B. Cathay."

"Yes," said Doctor Cooper in the tone of voice one uses in asking a courteous question.

"Yes," Griff said, "and I just thought, Doctor Cooper, that if a post-mortem should disclose that of Doctor Amstead incorrect, it might go a long way toward eliminating the necessity for any defense upon your part."

Griff ceased talking and held the telephone to his ear. For a moment there was only the buzzing noise of the wire. Then Doctor Cooper's voice said in the same cautious, thoughtful tone, "Thank you."

There was a click at the end of the line.

Griff slipped the receiver back on its hook.

SIDNEY GRIFF'S taxicab deposited him at the wide entrance to the Cathay mansion. "You want me to wait?" asked the cab driver.

"Yes," Griff said, and started up the long cement walk which led from the ornamental wrought-iron gate to the porch on the front of the house.

He had almost reached the porch when the door opened and a tall man with broad shoulders and a slight paunch which bulged out of his waistcoat stepped with quick vigor from the house and turned sharply to the right, walking across the porch to stairs which led to a driveway that came from the garage.

Griff called a low comment: "Hello, Racine," he said. "You going to pass me up?"

The man whirled at the sound of the voice. His eyes stared at Sidney Griff with an expression of quick recognition which speedily gave way to wary appraisal. He turned and walked back toward Griff with a leisurely manner.

Griff watched him with eyes that twinkled with amusement, yet were cautiously watchful.

"Business here, Racine?" he asked.

Carl Racine stood with his feet planted slightly apart, his big shoulders squared, his eyes staring steadily at the criminologist.

"Business here, Griff?" he asked mockingly.

Griff nodded. "Yes," he said. "I want to see Mrs. Cathay."

"Hardly a time for social visits," Racine pointed out.

Griff shrugged his shoulders in a polite gesture of dismissal.

THERE was a moment of silence. "I wonder if you can tell me just what angle of this case you're working on?" Racine asked.

"How many angles has it?" Griff countered.

Racine frowned impatiently.

"Oh," he said, "I'm just a square-toed dick. I can't match wits with you if it comes to a matter of being indefinite in conversation. You don't have to tell me if you don't want to, but don't be so damned superior. After all you're only human, you know, even if you are Sidney C. Griff, the great criminologist."

Griff said nothing. His eyes held a twinkle of amusement.

"I thought," Racine said, "that you might like a chance to pool information on this."

"Sure," said Griff, "that's fair enough. You start off. You tell me something, then I'll tell you something."

"That's a bargain," Racine said.

"Who are you working for?"

Griff's laugh was almost sarcastic. "So that was the way you wanted to pool information, was it, Racine?"

A smooth running motor slid into view, stopped where the side steps of the porch met the driveway. The Cathay chauffeur slid from behind the wheel, opened the rear door of the car and stared steadily at the two men.

"There is," said Griff musingly, "something strange about that chauffeur, Racine. Turn around and take a look at him. He wears the livery of a servant but notice the expression on his face. He's evidently very much irritated because we're talking together."

Racine did not turn, but he straightened abruptly and his tone became formal.

"He's in a hurry," he said. "He's under instructions to get me to a certain place. I've got to start. Goodbye, Griff."

Racine crossed the porch with long strides. The chauffeur stood at rigid attention, his face a mask. As the detective entered the car, the chauffeur slammed the door, turned to face Sidney Griff.

"You can't see Mrs. Cathay," he said, jerking open the front door of the car. He did not wait for a reply, nor did he turn back for any instructions from the detective.

Diagrams of Danger—No. 4

No one is more active in the campaign to persuade the automobile driver to exercise the care, courtesy and common sense which will reduce the appalling number of accidents than Motor Vehicle Administrators. They know the facts. Ten of them, officers of National and Regional Associations, have described the most common driving and pedestrian faults.

By J. P. BICKELL

Registrar of Motor Vehicles, Ontario, Canada. President, Region No. 1 of American Association of Motor Vehicle Administrators.

THE impulse to pass the other fellow on the road at all costs is responsible for thousands of motor accidents every year. Such an impulse causes a driver to cut in and out of line, to pass on the wrong side or at the wrong time, to pass on hills or curves, to drive in the wrong lane, and at best to jam traffic and slow down progress. All that is called weaving and you see it every day not only on the open highway but on our bridges and on our narrowest thoroughfares. The man who is going no place in particular with plenty of time to go there finds himself at the end of the line. He is not content with that so he proceeds to weave in and out of traffic to get to the head of the procession. He is the bane of every safe driver, a menace not only to himself and his own family but to every other person.

Our traffic regulations are reasonable, designed to facilitate the progress of motor vehicles. If drivers would only restrain themselves and stay in line these accidents would never happen. One might lose a minute or two out of an hour of travel, but that would be more than made up in safe progress. For your own sake, if not for others, stay in line.

Do not be a weaver!

Insull Faces 'Weighty' Evidence

The famed five-foot shelf would hold only a small part of the "literature" that has been assembled as evidence in the mail fraud trial of Samuel Insull and 16 others in Chicago, as this picture of the collection in federal courtroom shows. A 22-foot book rack holds the exhibits, 2500 in number, which furnish ammunition for federal attorneys fighting for conviction. Shown left to right beside the exhibits are U. S. District Attorney Dwight Green and Special Prosecutors Forrest J. Harness and Leslie E. Salter.

Living Our Everyday Lives

GOLD-DIGGERS

By Dr. Joseph Fort Newton

A party of goldseekers in Nevada came upon a patch of "blue stuff" which looked like a good lead. But there was no gold in it, and they threw away the blue stuff and trekked on.

In their feverish hunt for gold they left behind them, for the benefit of wiser men, the famous Comstock Lode, one of the richest silver mines in the world hidden in the "blue stuff."

It is good to look for the gold of life, but it is foolish to overlook the silver—yet that is what so many of us do. We seek high task, some service of God and man on a great scale; and seeking it, we overlook the humbler usefulness which lie nearby.

In one of his finest essays on "Truth-hunting" Birrell compares the life of Coleridge, lost in the mists of abstract ideas, with the humble heroism of Charles Lamb, going home every night to play cribbage with his fretful old father, and quietly putting love and ambition aside to become the guardian of an afflicted sister.

No doubt Coleridge found a crumb or two of gold, but Lamb was a millionaire in silver. If his friends called him "Saint Charles" it was because, in doing his duty in the dusty earth of daily life, he found something finer than all the gold in all the hills.

An old man in London told me of hearing Lord Shaftesbury speak at a meeting of the Ragged Union School, sixty-five years ago. He began by telling of the dear old nurse who influenced his early life, and then drew out of his pocket a silver watch with the remark: "This she gave me when dying; it was all she had to give."

"Then we learned," said the old man who told me the story, "who really founded the schools for poor ragged children, the old nurse laid the first stone, though she herself did not know it."

We are all of us going to do golden deeds one of these days, but the silver deeds which we might do are overlooked. We forget the little kindly word which might make the sun shine on a dark day.

IF YOUR BREATH HAS A SMELL YOU CAN'T FEEL WELL

When we eat too much, our food decays in our bowels. Our friends smell this decay coming out of our mouth and call it bad breath. We feel the poison of this decay all over our body. It makes us gloomy, grouchy and no good for anything. What makes the food decay in the bowels?

Well, when we eat too much, our bile juice can't digest it. What is the bile juice? It is the most vital digestive juice in our body. Unless 23 pints of it are flowing from our liver into our bowels every day, our movements get hard and constipated and 24 of our food decays in our 28 feet of bowels. This decay sends poison all over our body every six minutes.

When our friends smell our bad breath (we don't) and we feel like a whipped ox, we don't want a mouthwash or take a laxative. Get at the cause. Take Carter's Little Liver Pills which gently start the liver moving, get hard and constipated and 24 of our food decays in our 28 feet of bowels. This decay sends poison all over our body every six minutes.
